CHICAGO. CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 5.—Wheat today was unsettled. The market was quiet, with spasms of activity. The opening was about 1/2/4c. lower than yesterday's closing, but some strength was shown and prices advanced 1/2/4c. After holding steady for a while, a weak feeling developed, prices declined 1/2/1c., and the close was 1/2/4c. lower for December and 1/2/4c. lower for May than cember and 1/4/1/20. lower for May than yesterday.

There was not much doing in corn carly, the market keeping about steady. Towards the close, however, the selling became very heavy, being led by one of it that the company had paid became very heavy, being led by one of the largest commission houses, and was followed by shippers and room traders.
The price sold off sharply at 1%@1c. and closed at inside figures. Cash was in good demand, moderate supply and prices were steady, but closed weak and 1/4c. lower all around.

Oats-The trade was moderate, the feeling easy and the net decline for the day 14614c. The break in corn started a moderate selling movement, and the close was easy at inside figures.

The provision market was strong and higher on light receipts of hogs and higher prices for them. Offerings were light and outside business of no tonse-quence. A few buying orders advanced the market. Packers selling readily, but taking care to sustain the price by bidding. There was a slight reaction to-wards the close, but final figures showed steady feeling all around. January pork closed 20c. higher and January lard and ribs each 10c, higher, Cash Quotations-Flour quiet and easy Cash Quotations—Flour quiet and price unchanged; No. 2 spring wheat, and price unchanged; No. 2 spring wheat, and price unchanged; No. 2 spring wheat, 64%c; No. 2 red, 64%c; No. 2 corn, 36%c; No. 2 cats, 28c; meas pork, $16.050717.00; No. 2 oats, 28c; whisty, $1.00 or price unchanged; No. 2 spring wheat, 64%c; No. 2 corn, 36%c; No. 2 c

WOMEN IN ENGLAND.

Physique of the Middle Class Tali

Women, Francis Galton has collected some in-teresting facts in regard to the effect of athletics and improved physical condi-tions during the last forty years on the mysique of the middle classes, that great and important part of the English popuation, which is the arbitrary social scale of the country lies between the artisan

Mr. Galton gives instructive evide of the amelioration of the upper middle class. When he was an undergraduate at Cambridge, from 1840 to 1844, although out 5 feet 9 3-4 inches in height, he was ailer than the majority of his fellows tailer than the majority of his fellowers, in addressing them he habitually lowered his eyes, and if in a crowd, he would readily see over the heads of the people Writing in 188%, he states that he no long or possesses those advantages. Altered social condition, in his opinion, have neiped to improve the bodily powers and ad fress of this class-such conditions, To natance, as more wholesome and abun dant food, better cooking, warmer ing, moderation in the use of aiconol, bet-ter ventilazed sleeping rooms, more enange-through vacations, and, lastly, the neuity of London is the h women that are to be found in the fash-ionable parks during the season. It is more particularly among the women of the upper classes that the improved conditions of the last two generations conditions of the last two general fields that left their mark. Women of five feet six inches and five feet eight inches are common, and it is not a very unusual occurrence to meet a woman of five feet ten inches, and even six feet. live feet ten inches, and even six feet. A gentlemen weil known in London so-clety states that when he became of age, twenty-two years ago, his sister, a tail handsome girl, was the tailest girl among the visiting acpuaintances of the family, and now she is overtopped by nearly every one of her younger indy acquaintances.

With this physical progress there has been a corresponding moral one. The youth of what is called in England "Leisure class," is not now so addicted to the idle habits, the had language, the esimbling, and the unmarily amusements of his forefathers. Exercise has taught of his forefathers. Exercise has taught him to be choicer in his dress and more lavish in the use of water. The purer mental tone has insensibly permeated more or less other grades of large English towns are not so throused as they were with drunkness and dirty toughs. The prominence given to all bedily exploits by the sporting and general press has likewise directed public attention to the question of physical education, and has had an eminently salutary influence.— Globe Democrat.

Lessons on the Fair.

Our work a day nation awakened, it has been frequently said, to the knowledge of the existence of art as a factor in life at Philadelphia seventeen years ledge of the existence of air as a ractor in life at Philadelphia seventeen years ago, and here and now attains, as it were, its majority. We may leave out our exhibit in the Fine Arts Building proper, with the mere registration of the fact that by general consent it holds its own as well or better than close students of our art have known that it has done for several years past. The exhibitions, or that controlled by the Columbian Commission, is our best sign of progress, nay, of achievement. It has proved that throughout the land, when occasion arises to build, to carve, or to paint, we have the men to do it. Art hath her victories no less than commerce; the qualities which have given us our place among nations, now that the struggle is past, are turned in gentler paths; and that which was prophecy so short a time ago is now truth realized: "Following the sun, westward the march "Following the sun, westward the march

By IK. MARVEL (Donald G. Mitchell.) This American classic has enjoyed a world wide circulation at its price of 1.25. It is now offered for the first time at a nominal cost to our subscribers. How agreeable is "Ik. Marvel" in this gem of a book from his pen, how quaint, how humorous, philosophical, pathetic and charming. LAYS OF ANCIENT ROME. By LORD MACAULAY. Beautifully Illustrated.

Macaulay's "Lays" are instinct with the very soul of poetry, and are full of heroic action and energy. Like Scott's spirit-stirring ballads, they have a fine picturesque quality, with graphic breadth and great realistic power of expression. The English, no less than the Roman lays, have the breadth of the battlefield and the sounding notes of the charge to battle. The illustrations of this edition are unique, being executed in delicate outline. 3. A THLLYLOSS SCANDAL, By J. M. BARRIE.

A THEALOSS SCANDAL. By J. M. BARRIE.

A new work by J. M. Barrie, author of the Scottish classic, "The Little Minister," which has had a phenomenal sale, may be expected to whet the literary appetite of every intelligent reader of high-class fiction. In stories of humble Scottish peasant life, Mr. Barrie is on his own special ground. He knows the characteristics of the Scottish weaver and the peasant class as the sallor knows the sea. His sketches are full of a dry, quaint humor, with a strong realism and great force and directness of narrative power. Never, since Scotts decided Scottish decides had such an interpreter or so entrancing a day, has Lowland Scottish fiction had such an interpreter or so entrancing a depictor of character, lit up, at the same time, with odd situations and amusing or droll incident.

THE HOUSE OF THE SEVEN GABLES. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. This masterpiece of Hawthorne's is full of the imaginative charm of romance. In felicity of touch, its author is unapproached by any writer since his own day. The work is, perhaps, the purest piece of poetic prose in all the range of CRANFORD. By MRS. GASKELL. "Cranford," in its charming miniature painting and sketches of character, re-calls the best of Jane Austen's novels. It is a delightful picture of old world social life in an English country village, descriptive of the feelings, habits, opin-ions, character and social conditions of the little community. The story is quiet earnestness and with the literary aptitudes in the writer. It is beautifully flustrated.

"The Coming Race," by Lord Lytton, is a clever and ingenious excursion into the realm of science, as the inventive mind of man may find it in the coming time. It presents a curious but fascinating picture of the human environments, as we may see it realized in the next century, when human needs will be served by every resource of electrical and mechanical contrivance—when "the coming race," for instance, will be enabled to exchange domestic helps for ingenious and mercury-footed automatons, and have at command every appliance adapted to the marvellously changed social and industrial condition of things. The work is the product of a fanciful but rarely gifted and versatile mind. 6. THE COMING RACE. By LORD LYTTON.

7. DREAM LIFE, By IK MARVEL (Donald G. Mitchell.) There is a profound mental study in this world-wide American classic. It contains a series of very vivid and picturesque studies of individual character and feeling. It has a fascinating power over the reader, while its graceful diction charms the literary appreciation and fills the mind with delightful, though sometimes pathetic pictures.

S. FRANKENSTEIN; OR, THE MODERN PROMETHEUS. By Mrs. Shelley Like Mrs. Crowe's "Night Side of Nature," Mrs. Shelley's "Frankenstein" is a book every one should read. Its author has great imaginative powers and a weird but original genius. There are passages in "Frankenstein" that appai the mind and make the flesh creep. Once read, the book can hardly ever be for-

9. A BOOK OF GOLDEN DEEDS. By C. M. YONGE, This is just the book to put into the hand of youth, circulating a healthy morality, and true manly and womanly sentiments. Few books are better formed than this to develop and mould the tastes of the rising generation and encourage optimistic and patriotic ideas. 10. MOSSES FROM AN OLD MANSE. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNS.

Another delightful companion for idle hours is this collection of magazine papers, which Hawthorne entitled "Mosses from an Old Manse." Like all his works, it is distinguished for its simplicity and truth. Its high literary excellence commends it anew to public favor.

11. THE SCARLET LETTER. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. A romance of intense interest, exhibiting extraordinary power of mental analysis and graphic description. For an artistic exposition of Puritanism, as modified by New England colonial life, we have nothing like it in our literature. Like the best of Scott's novels, it is true at once to the local manners and scenic features of the age and place.

12. ESSAYS OF ELIA. By CHARLES LAMB. These charming essays are full of a gay humor, interspersed with many sly this, happy puns and bright scintillations of wit; carefully elaborated as they are, hits, happy puns and bright scintillations of wit; carefully elaborated as they are, they are written with the utmost case and grace, and composed in a spirit at they are written with the utmost case and grace, and composed in a spirit at once delicate and unobtrusive. 4. TWICE TOLD TALES. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNS.

Hawthorns, the most distinctly American and by far the most popular of our writers, has given the world an undying book in "Twice-Told Tales." The stories were originally contributed to an Annual, published now over fifty years ago, and being subsequently reprinted, are in reality "Twice-Told Tales." They have all being subsequently reprinted, are in reality "Twice-Told Tales." They have all the felicity of expression, as well as the subtlety of thought and insight, which the felicity of contemplation, and its effect is heightened by the felicities of its own air of contemplation, and its effect is heightened by the felicities of style no less than by the imaginative genius of the author. 14. TWICE TOLD TALES. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNS. 15. PAUL AND VIRGINIA. By BERNARDIN DE SAINT PIERRE.

5. PAUL AND VIRGINIA. By DERNARDIN DE SAINT PIERRE.

This idyllic story, by a classic French writer of the wholesome remantic school, is an immortal book, and has won a place for itself in the homes of almost every people who possess a literature and can appreciate the work of genius. It may, with some literary propriety, be termed an idealized Robinson Crusoc, and it has with some literary propriety, be termed an idealized Robinson Crusoc, and it has with some literary propriety, be termed work. It is a book that is sure to go all the fascination of that renowned work. It is a book that is sure to go down the centuries, charming as well as edifying generations yet unborn. 16. STORY OF AN AFRICAN FARM. By (Ralph Iron) OLIVE SCHEENER.

16. STORY OF AN AFRICAN FARM. By (Ralph Iron) OLIVE SCHREINER.

Under the nom de plume of Ralph Iron, Miss Olive Schreiner has written an extraordinarily powerful story, full of graphic descriptions and the most appealing pathos. The author seems to have followed no recognized mode of romance, pathos. The author seems to have followed no recognized mode of romance, but struck out a new path in faction for herself. Her novel consists of a series but struck out a new path in faction for herself. Her novel consists of a series but struck out a new path in faction for herself. Her novel consists of a series but struck out a new path if the of an orchard farm in South Africa, and set-of studies illustrating the wild life of an orchard farm in South Africa, and seting before the reader, with striking vigor, the problems which trouble a strong ting before the reader, with striking vigor, the problems which trouble a strong ting before and an imaginative ambition, remote from any possibility of culture. The work, which leaves an abiling memory on every reader, is one of the most remarkable novels of the age.

17. LAYS OF THE SCOTTISH CAVALIERS.

These stirring ballads of Professor Aytoun, of Blackwood fame, have their only rival in Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome." Their popularity is not lessented by the fact that they are to be met with in every school reader and in the repertoire of most elecutionists and platform declaimers. Nor is popular appreciation affected by the fact that their author, in enshrining in patriotic and clatter author, the enshrining in patriotic and soul-stirring verse the heroic incidents of Scottish history, takes the "Royalist" side as against that of the "Covenanters."

18. LUCILE. By Owen MEREDITH (Robert Lord Lytton.) "Lucile," by the second Lord Lytton, late Governor-General of India and British Ambassador to Paris, is a novel in verse, with rhymed couplets, cast somewhat in the mould of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh." It is an enchanting what in the mould of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh." It is an enchanting what in the mould of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh." 9. DREAMS. (In Press.) By (Raiph Iron) OLIVE SCHREINER.

Though unlike the "Story of an African Farm," "Dreams" has many of the characteristics which made Miss Schreiner's early work famous. The book is both interesting and suggestive, and, besides its high meditative qualities, is rich in the discussion of those mental and moral problems which this clover writer dether discussion of those mental and lay before the thoughtful reader, "Dreams" lights to propound to herself and lay before the thoughtful reader, "Dreams" is manifestly the work of a rare and uncommon mind.

20. BLACK BEAUTY. (In Press.) By ANNA SEWELL.

"Black Beauty" is a horse, and the story Miss Sewell so feelingly tells us is its autobiography. The tale well deserves its great popularity, for it is wonderfully realistic, and makes a strong appeal to those who love dumb animals and possers the instinct of common humanity. It is a book to clear and impress all who have to do with horses, especially those who seek to suppress that most senseless of all vices, cruelty to animals.
